DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(c) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Anderson et al. (US 7,371,067; hereinafter Anderson).

Regarding claims 1 and 7, Anderson discloses an interventional procedure simulation system and method, comprising a control unit and an interface unit, said control unit communicating with said interface unit to simulate handling of at least one instrument interfaced by said interface unit, wherein control unit comprises a database of vessels having hierarchy structure (Col. 11, lines 48-61), each vessel having a diameter and a stiffness, and said instrument being a tool expandable in a simulated vessel, whereby when said tool is expanded, a geometry of said vessel changes resulting in a fluid flow change. See Col. 2, lines 28-45.

Regarding claim 2, Anderson discloses simulated vessels that are interconnected in a hierarchical structure and said fluid flow change effects fluid flow changes in adjacent simulated vessels. (Col. 11, lines 48-61).

Regarding claim 3, Anderson discloses an instrument that is a balloon, stent and/or a distal protection tool. See Col. 2, lines 46-56.

Art Unit: 3714

Regarding claim 4, Anderson discloses that the vessel is realized by a tubular geometry and specific stiffness. See Fig. 5.

Regarding claim 5, Anderson discloses vessels that are realized by lesions having different stiffness than the neighboring vessel parts. See Col. 14, lines 33-63.

Regarding claim 6, Anderson discloses a system that calculates a flow through the hierarchal structure realized as a vessel-tree as a result of its geometry. (Col. 11, lines 48-61).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 8-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Anderson.

Anderson discloses all of the claimed subject matter with the exception of disclosing that the flow simulation is modeled as an electrical resistive network. However, the examiner takes official notice that the feature of modeling blood flow of a blood vessel in terms of resistance and current is old and well known, and therefore it would have been an obvious modification with predictable results to one of ordinary skill in the art.
